At the same time, net profit of the Polish banking sector in 2012 increased, however significantly lower growth rate of the financial result was recorded compared to 2011. This purpose was carried out by taking care of the effectiveness of operation, including effective costs control. - increase in net interest income, which is connected with an increase in interest income in respect of loans and advances to customers (+6.2% y/y) and an increase in interest income from securities,
- high cost management effectiveness; C/I ratio amounted to 37.7% and was significantly better than the average for the Polish banking sector, which amounted to 50.9%,
- net impairment allowance and write-downs, which was worse by PLN 646.5 million than achieved in 2011, mainly due to an increase in impairment allowances on corporate loans, while improving on the result on consumer loans, and the recognition of impairment allowances of shares in subsidiaries – Kredobank SA and Inter-Risk Ukraina Additional Liability Company, made due to adverse events in the Ukrainian market in order to reflect the present recoverable amount of companies,

1.5 PKO Bank Polski SA against its peer group⁴

The stable situation in the banking sector in 2012 and the increase of the average annual interest rates translated into the high level of the profits recorded by banks in 2012. In 2012, PKO Bank Polski SA achieved high financial results.

* The value of net profit for 3Q2012 for particular banks was adopted as a sum of net profit recognised for 3Q2012 and for 4Q2011.

In 2012, PKO Bank Polski SA maintained the relation of costs to income at a very low level – significantly lower than the value realised by the peer group.

³ Stable sources of funding include amounts due to customers (including: funds from the issuance of bonds) and external financing in the form of subordinated liabilities, debt securities in issue and amounts due to financial institutions.

Ratio calculations are based on the data available in annual reports of the particular banks (data for the years 2005-2011), and due to lack of publications of some of the banks from the peer group annual reports for 2012 before publication date of annual report of PKO Bank Polski SA, data for 3 quarters of 2012 of these banks, as data representing trends in 2012, was adopted. The level of capital adequacy ratio in PKO Bank Polski SA remained also at a safe and stable level – significantly above the minimum level set by the Banking Act.

2. EXTERNAL BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

2.1 Macroeconomic environment

A decrease in economic activity was observed in Poland in 2012. At the same time, adverse economic trends (stagnation/recession) continued in the euro zone and the EU funds from the Financial Perspective 2007–2013 were coming to an end. The economic processes were accompanied by the high uncertainty as to the future growth prospects. In 2012, GDP growth in Poland amounted to ca. 2.0% compared with 4.3% in 2011 with the decrease in GDP growth rate during the year. This significant slow-down was due to a decreasing growth rate of capital expenditure and a significant, negative contribution of inventories to growth (in particular in the second quarter of 2012), reflecting prompt adaptation of enterprises to new, unfavourable demand conditions. A decrease in private consumption was a result of inflation remaining at an increased level and a gradual deterioration in the situation on the labour market. Net export, which was achieved mainly due to a decrease in the import-intensive domestic demand component, had a positive effect on growth. Given the slower GDP growth rate in 2012, the slight increase in the employment rate in the corporate sector by 0.1% y/y, compared with 3.2% in 2011 was recorded, whereas the registered unemployment rate increased by 0.9 pp. per annum to 13.4% in December 2012. The increase in wages and salaries in the corporate sector decreased to 3.4% in 2012, compared with 5.0% in 2011.

The average annual inflation rate, measured with the consumer price index (CPI), decreased to 3.7% y/y in 2012 (from 4.3% y/y in 2011). Throughout most of the year, this index remained at a level close to that recorded in the previous year (ca. 4%) and outside the NBP inflation target corridor (2.5% +/- 1%), which was mainly due to supply shocks – fossil fuel prices remaining at high level and a strong growth of food prices. The value of the index started to decrease strongly in the fourth quarter, which was due to fuel price decreases, food disinflation and strong base effects. In December, CPI inflation amounted to 2.4% y/y.

2.2 Situation on the stock exchange

The year 2012 was a very good year for the global stock markets, including the Warsaw Stock Exchange. The WIG index grew by 26%. The year started with strong increases due to enthusiasm following the liquidity operations (LTRO) conducted by the European Central Bank. However, the second quarter brought a strong correction caused by disappointing macroeconomic data and fears that the euro zone might break up. Prosperity returned in the second half of the year, and the ECB President's declaration concerning conditional buy-out of peripheral euro-zone government bonds should be considered the turning point. The upturn on the stock markets was caused by three factors: a decrease in the system risk for the euro zone, expansive policies of central banks, which contributed to low market interest rates and the forecasts that the low point of the business cycle in the European economy would be reached in the first half of 2013 at the latest. The above mentioned factors encouraged investors to seek profits among more risky assets, such as shares.

2.3 Interest rate market

In 2012 profitability decreases on the Polish interest rate market were mainly driven by expectations that the monetary policy in the world, including Poland, would become less strict. Such a scenario was supported by the belief that the disinflation process started in the middle of the previous year and that it would be continued in 2013. Additionally, fears of an economic slow-down increased in Poland around the end of the first half of the year and the beginning of the second half due to a decline in infrastructural investment and the economic downturn in the euro zone. The gradual decrease in credit risk premium in the euro zone was additional factor that had a positive effect on the prices of Polish Treasury bonds. 3-year LTROs introduced by the European Central Bank to provide banks with liquidity, and, subsequently the OMT programme announced in August to buy Treasury bonds on the secondary market, resulted in a rapid decrease in the CDS contracts' prices reflecting a risk of insolvency. During the whole year, the yield on Polish 2-year bonds decreased by 175 b.p. to 3.12%, and the yield on 5 and 10 year bonds decreased by 210-220 b.p. to 3.22% and 3.73%, respectively. 5-year CDS contract's prices for Poland decreased by 200 b.p. to 80 b.p., which reflects growing creditworthiness.

In accordance with the 'Monetary Policy Guidelines for 2012', the monetary policy objective was to maintain inflation at the level of 2.5%, with a symmetrical tolerance range for deviations of +/- 1 pp. Due to inflation remaining above the upper limit of the range, in May 2012 the Monetary Policy Council (RPP - Rada Polityki Pieniężnej) decided to increase interest rates by 25 b.p. to 4.75% (the reference rate). As the GDP growth was becoming slower and the inflation pressure was decreasing, RPP moved from stricter to less strict monetary policy measures over a period of 6 months. Namely, it decreased the interest rates in November by 25 b.p. and then by another 25 b.p. in December (to 4.25%). Average annual 3M WIBOR rate was at the level of 4.91% in 2012, which means an increase by 0.37 pp. compared with 2011.

2.4 Foreign exchange market

In 2012, the main factors determining changes on the foreign exchange market were the following:

- the debt crisis in the peripheral euro zone countries and the resulting market fears concerning the solvency and EMU membership of Greece and the stability of the Spanish financial system (the first half of 2012),
- quantitative expansions and intervention bond buyouts by the Fed (QE3, Twist Operation), ECB (LTRO, OMT) and other central banks,
- gradual slowdown of the economic growth followed by interest rate decreases (i.a. in Poland).

The foreign exchange market was characterised by high volatility. Ultimately, the exchange rate of the euro to the US dollar increased, as did the rate of the Polish zloty to both these currencies. Tensions in the global financial system associated with the debt crisis in the euro zone made it impossible for the National Bank of Switzerland to withdraw from defending the EUR/CHF exchange rate at the 1.20 level, since the market pressure kept the exchange rate of this currency pair close to the bottom limit determined by the SNB throughout the year. As a result, the CHF/PLN exchange rate was changing along the same lines as the EUR/PLN exchange rate throughout the year. EUR/USD amounted to 1.3194 at the end of the year, EUR/PLN amounted to 4.0750, and CHF/PLN amounted to 3.3721.

2.5 The situation in the Polish banking sector

The situation of the Polish banking sector remained stable in 2012. Although the rate of growth of the financial result was much lower than in 2011. In 2012, the net financial result amounted to PLN 16.1 billion and was 3.9% higher than in 2011. This increase was mainly due to an increase in the result on banking activities (3.3% y/y), including the net interest income (1.5% y/y), and the other operating profit (15.9% y/y), as well as maintaining a stable growth rate of administrative expenses (3.7% y/y). An increase in net impairment allowance (ca. 4% y/y) resulting from deterioration in the quality of the loan portfolio had an adverse effect on the financial result.

The operating efficiency of the banking sector deteriorated slightly: as at the end of 2012, the C/I ratio amounted to 50.9%, compared with 50.7% in the previous year. The capital adequacy ratio of the banking sector remained high: it amounted to 14.7% and was higher compared with the previous year (+1.6 pp.).

The impaired receivables increased by 8.7% y/y as at the end of 2012, and the share of such receivables in total receivables as at the end of 2012 amounted to 8.8% compared with 8.2% as at the end of 2011. This was due to an increase in the non-performing loans of large enterprises (by 34%), including mainly resulting from a deterioration in the financial position of the construction industry. The rate of non-performing loans to total loans granted to enterprises as at the end of 2012 increased to 11.7% from 10.3% as at the end of 2011, for housing loans it increased to 2.8% from 2.4% and for consumer loans it decreased to 17.3% from 17.9%.

As at the end of 2012, the total assets of the banking sector amounted to PLN 1 353 billion and were 4.5% higher than as at the end of 2011. The situation on the loan and deposit market was characterised by a significant slow-down in the lending activities of banks and a slight increase in the deposit volumes. The change in the loan and deposit volumes was affected by the appreciation of PLN, which reduced their value (a decrease in the PLN/CHF exchange rate of 6.8% and PLN/EUR of 7.4% in y/y terms).

In 2012, total loans increased by PLN 13.3 billion compared with PLN 118 billion in 2011, and the rate of their growth decreased from 15.2% y/y as at the end of 2011 to 1.5% y/y. After an adjustment for changes in the exchange rates, the total increase in loans amounted to ca. PLN 37 billion and was a half of the amount recorded in 2011.

Lending activity addressed to enterprises was significantly reduced. The amount of loans in this segment increased by ca. PLN 1.8 billion in 2012 compared with PLN 43 billion in 2011, and their growth rate decreased from 19.5% y/y as at the end of 2011 to 0.7% y/y. The banks introduced stricter terms and criteria for granting loans to enterprises, which was due to an increased risk associated with the deteriorating economic situation and an increased industry risk, including among others in the construction sector.

The housing loans market was characterised by stagnation. As at the end of 2012, the growth rate of housing loans decreased from 19.2% y/y as at the end of 2011 to 0.8% y/y. The value of housing loans increased by PLN 2.6 billion in 2012, compared with PLN 51 billion in 2011. After eliminating foreign exchange differences, the actual increase in such loans in 2012 amounted to ca. PLN 18 billion and was 30% lower than in 2011. The sales of housing loans were adversely affected by a decrease in demand resulting from stronger fears associated with the future financial situation, stricter lending policies of banks due to implemented legal regulations, changes in the 'Rodzina na swoim' programme, and the deteriorating quality in the housing loan portfolio.

The decrease in the value of consumer loans was deeper. In 2012, their value decreased by ca. PLN 6.5 billion compared with PLN 3 billion in 2011. The lower value of such loans was due, among other things, to transfer of sales from the bank to lending firms within the same group in order to evade regulatory activity, the sale of a part of the non-performing loans portfolio, lower demand, stricter lending policies of banks resulting from newly implemented legal regulations, and an increase in competition from institutions other than banks.

In 2012, an increase in the total balance of deposits was more than 40% lower than in 2011; it amounted to ca. PLN 47 billion. The rate of growth of deposits decreased from 11% y/y as at the end of 2011 to 5.9% y/y as at the end of 2012. The main source of growth were deposits of households, which increased by PLN 36 billion. A growth was observed in the deposits of non-monetary financial institutions (of PLN 13 billion) and deposits of the budget sector (of ca. PLN 11 billion). At the same time, the volume of deposits of enterprises decreased by PLN 14 billion, which was mainly due to the deteriorating financial position of enterprises and the fact that they financed their growth from their own funds. The gap between loans and deposits as at the end of 2012 amounted to PLN 66 billion and was ca. 34% lower than as at the end of 2011, which contributed to an improvement in the loans to deposits ratio to 107.9% as at the end of 2012 compared with 112.6% as at the end of 2011.

- the Act of 22 December 2011 implementing amendments to the Tax Ordinance (Journals of Laws No. 291, item 1707) preventing from tax on profit from capital interest avoidance as of 1 April 2012, which influenced the situation on the retail deposit market,
- the Resolution of RPP of May 2012 increasing by 0.25 pp.: reference rate (to 4.75%), interest rate on refinancing loans secured with a pledge on securities (to 6.25%), the interest rate of fixed-term deposits placed by banks with the National Bank of Poland (to 3.25%) and the rediscount rate for bills of exchange accepted from banks for rediscounting,

PKO Bank Polski SA did not release financial results forecasts for 2012.

3.1 Factors influencing results of PKO Bank Polski SA

A decrease in economic activity was observed in Poland in 2012. At the same time, adverse recession trends continued in the euro zone economy. The economic processes were accompanied by the high uncertainty as to the future growth prospects.

The financial situation in the Polish banking sector remained stable in 2012, although the rate of growth of the financial result was much lower than in 2011. An increase in net impairment allowance resulting from deterioration in the quality of the loan portfolio had an effect on the financial result. The operating efficiency of the banking sector measured with C/I ratio also slightly deteriorated.

The situation on the loan and deposit market was characterised by a significant slow-down in the lending activities of banks and a slight increase in the deposit volumes.

⁵ In this section, any differences in total balances, shares and growth rates result from rounding the amounts to PLN million and rounding percentages to one decimal place.

The profitability of PKO Bank Polski SA shaped up on high level – as at the end of 2012, the ROE ratio amounted to 15.2%. An increase in amounts due to customers and the high level of equity of PKO Bank Polski SA covered the increasing capital needs, arising from the growth of the loan activity, and enabled the further stable growth of business activities. Net interest income

In 2012, net interest income was PLN 267.5 million higher than in the previous year, mainly due to interest income growth by PLN 935.9 million. In 2012, interest income amounted to PLN 12 754.0 million and in comparison with 2011 was higher by 7.9%, mainly as a result of an increase in:

- income in respect of loans and advances to customers (+)6.2% y/y – result from both an increase of loans and advances to customers portfolio volume (+1.4% y/y), and growing average annual interest rates during 2012,
- income from securities - result of an increase in the average volume and the interest rate of financial assets portfolio,

The rate of growth in interest expense amounted to (+)15.5% y/y mainly due to an increase in the costs of amounts due to customers (including service costs of loans received from non-monetary financial institutions), resulting from increase in amounts due to customers portfolio as well as increase in interest rates of clients deposits (adapting deposit products to the growing average annual market rates).

In 2012, the average interest rate on loans in PKO Bank Polski SA amounted to 7.2%, whereas the average interest rate on deposits in total amounted to 3.1%, as compared with 7.1% and 2.9% in 2011 respectively.

Result on financial operations

The result on financial operations in 2012 was significantly affected by a decrease in the profitability of Polish bonds. Net income from investment securities designated at the fair value through profit or loss increased by PLN 173.6 million y/y, which was mainly due to disposals of securities and an increase in their valuation.

Net income from investment securities was PLN 65.3 million higher than in the previous year, which was mainly due to disposals of the Treasury securities.

Administrative expenses

In 2012, administrative expenses amounted to PLN 4 192.8 million and increased by 3.3% compared with the previous year.

The level of administrative expenses in 2012 was mainly determined by:

- increase in employee benefits (+3.8% y/y), affected by both the increase in wages and salaries (+2.3% y/y) and employee insurance expense (+12.8% y/y),
- increase in amortisation and depreciation by 6.0% y/y - mainly as a result of increase in amortisation of intangible assets,
- increase in overheads and other expense by 1.7% y/y - i.a. as a result of an increase in contribution and payments to the Bank Guarantee Fund expenses, costs of maintenance and rental of non-current assets, expenses related to maintenance of archives, expenses related to purchase of assets that are not classified as fixed assets and IT expenses.

An increase of administrative expenses by 3.3% y/y, accompanied by an increase in the income of PKO Bank Polski SA by 3.1% as compared with 2011, resulted in maintaining high operating efficiency of the Bank, measured with the C/I ratio, which amounted to 37.7% as at the end of 2012 (+0.1 pp. compared with 2011).

Net impairment allowance and write-downs

Net impairment allowance and write-downs is an effect of maintaining a conservative approach of PKO Bank Polski SA to measurement of credit risk and the growth of credit portfolio. The net impairment allowance and write-downs in 2012 amounted to (-) PLN 2 458.6 million and was (-) PLN 646.5 million lower than in 2011.

Deterioration in net impairment allowance and write-downs in 2012 was mainly due to an increase in impairment allowances on amounts due from customers by 21.8%, mostly on corporate loans i.a. as a consequence of the weakening of market situation of construction companies, along with the improvement in the result on consumer loans.

Additionally, in order to reflect the present recoverable value of subsidiaries, impairment allowances of shares in Kredobank SA of (-) PLN 150.0 million and Inter-Risk Ukraina Additional Liability Company of (-) PLN 19.7 million were recognised due to adverse events in the Ukrainian market in 2012 (i.a. a decrease in economic growth in Ukraine to 0.2%, with a negative growth of (-) 1.2% and (-) 2.7% in the last two quarters of 2012, a reduce of rating to the B level by Standard&Poor's and to the B3 level by Moody's Investor Service - both with a negative outlook) and the verification of macroeconomic forecasts related to a decrease in forecasts of economic growth in Ukraine in the following years, an increase in currency risk and a consequent destabilisation of the Ukrainian financial market.

As at the end of 2012 the cost of risk increased by 0.2 pp. to the level of 1.4% compared to 1.2% as at the end of 2011, mainly due to an increase in impairment allowances on corporate loans.

4.1 Directions of development of PKO Bank Polski SA

The directions of development of PKO Bank Polski SA in 2012 are set out in the strategic goals presented in the 'LIDER' Strategy for the years 2010-2012. The key assumptions of the vision of the Bank's development stipulated in the strategy included:

- maintaining stable profitability and ensuring constant growth of the company's value, according to the expectations of shareholders,
- engaging in prudent risk management policy,
- obtaining the opinion of the best employer in the Polish financial sector.

The Bank's achievements and experience gained in 2012 and in the last three years of the 'LIDER' Strategy implementation confirm that these assumptions had been implemented successfully. PKO Bank Polski SA is systematically and consistently building its position of the bank market leader not only in Poland, but also in Central and Eastern Europe. A new strategy for the years 2013-2015 to be developed in the first quarter of 2013 will be a continuation of the previously adopted directions for the Bank's development and growth; at the same time, the current priorities and macroeconomic conditions will be taken into account.

The main goals pursued by the Bank in 2012 included i.a.:

- maintaining stable growth in the areas of profitability, efficiency and capital base,
- analysing the customers' needs and the related changes in segmentation and the offer required to adjust the service model to the needs of the individual market segment,

- centralisation and optimisation of processes, with a particular focus on a support function,
- building active relationships with customers based on CRM,
- development of transaction platforms and alternative forms of financing.

Gradual improvement of customer service quality is one of the main strategic priorities of the Bank. When implementing system changes, the Bank at the same time makes efforts to improve customer satisfaction through actions including i.a. reconstruction and adjustment of transaction systems to achieve a faster, comprehensive and more ergonomic service, both at the branch and with the use of self-service devices and online channels. In order to ensure the efficient execution of business and customer-oriented efforts, works on optimisation of product offer aimed at adjusting the Bank's services to the customers' needs and expectations are carried out. Moreover, important qualitative changes in customer service standards are being implemented, relating to the development and modernisation of the Bank's branches as well as their equipment and visualisation.

Strategic actions carried out in 2012 were also focused on several strategic programmes and projects aimed at full and effective use of the Bank's potential as well as the potential of the PKO Bank Polski SA Group's subsidiaries. These actions are aimed at achieving a synergy effect and at optimising business benefits related to preparing a complementary service offer for clients.

Consistent supervision and cooperation methods in respect of the Bank with its subsidiaries were implemented. In this respect, integration processes and work on centralising the support function were conducted. To strengthen the cost synergy effect in the PKO Bank Polski SA Group, the procurement process was optimised and significant sources of savings were obtained. Action in respect of infrastructural initiatives leading to standardisation, centralisation and simplification of the IT architecture, and increasing cost effectiveness of the IT infrastructure were also conducted.

4.2 Execution of the 'Lider' Strategy for the years 2010-2012

In the period of execution of the 'Lider' Strategy, the Bank successfully implemented its vision, gradually improving the quality of services provided, achieving record financial results and implementing top market standards of modern and efficient organisation.

From the business perspective, the strategic objectives realized by the Bank were based on three main pillars: retail banking, corporate banking and investment banking. The implementation of the strategic business objectives was focused on meeting the needs of the Bank's customers, both individual and institutional, taking into account the specific needs of particular market segments.

In the retail segment, the main results of implementing the "Leader" Strategy included, among others, the following:

- modernizing the Bank's logo and image, based on a promotional campaign combined with a wide-ranging media and advertising campaign, which were well received and positively assessed by the majority of the customers surveyed (a survey by TNS);
- introducing a new offer of savings and deposit accounts (ROR), which represented an important element in the re-development of the Bank's image and changes in both the product offer and the Bank's organization and systems;
- re-instating and re-launching the school-operated savings account (Szkolna Kasa Oszczędności - SKO), a unique offer for an electronic student account combined with the first on-line banking service for children in Poland;
- implementing a new customer service model in private banking and personal banking through pro-active actions aimed at optimizing the service model and a dedicated product offer for these segments;
- implementing a new typology to the Bank's branches so as to better adapt to customer needs in specific micro-markets;
- developing the Bank's offer in remote-access channels, by, among others, filling in functional gaps in the Inteligo and iPKO electronic channels; developing a mobile access channel and mobile-operated authorization system; migrating payment cards to the EMV standard.

In the corporate and investment segments, the main results of implementing the "Leader" Strategy included, inter alia, the following:

- centralizing and standardizing customer service for the Bank's strategic customers;
- optimizing the lending process, which involved, inter alia, reorganizing the credit process and standardizing credit documentation;

- optimizing and expanding the Brokerage House's product offer, which included implementing an advanced lending model, improving the customer service standards, offering selected services provided by the Brokerage House in the Bank's branches, and launching a professional Call Centre dedicated to the Brokerage House's needs.

Financial results

In the last three years, i.e. in the period of execution of the 'Lider' Strategy, the assets, loans and deposits of PKO Bank Polski SA increased by ca. 25%, and the net profit increased by approximately 50%. The capital adequacy ratio as at the end of 2012 was higher than assumed in the Strategy and it amounted to 12.93%.

The most important effect of the achievement of the Bank's strategic goals, particularly from the point of view of its investors, is apart from the market position, the high level of the net profit. The positive effect on profit had i.a. the following factors: a lower growth rate of administrative expenses and a further improvement of the efficiency of operations, measured with the C/I ratio. The Bank achieved the financial goals of its Strategy, such as i.a. high return on equity and the cost/income ratio of ca. 38% (the target was below 45%).

Housing loans

In 2012, the Bank maintained a strong position on the housing loans market, which confirms a high level of share in the housing loans market – 20% at the end of 2012. According to the data of the Polish Bank Association, at the end of 2012 PKO Bank Polski SA took first place on the market with its 28.3% share in sale of housing loans for retail clients – selling loans only in Polish currency. In March 2012 the Bank organised 'Drzwi otwarte do Twojego własnego mieszkania' (Open door to your own apartment) action, thanks to which clients could use a special mortgage loan offer. In 2012 the Bank, in order to meet clients' expectations, introduced a few promotional offers.

In 2012, the Bank recorded a high volume of sales of loans as part of the 'Rodzina na Swoim' programme, which was associated with regulatory changes introduced in the said programme, as well as with the promotional terms offered by the Bank for the preferential housing loan. Consumer loans

In 2012, a decrease in the volume of consumer loans was observed in PKO Bank Polski SA, as well as in the whole banking sector. As one of the initiatives supporting the sales of such group of loans, PKO Bank Polski SA carried out promotional activities, mainly focused on the Cash Loan and the Aurum/Platinum loan. These activities were mainly aimed at offering the customers attractive credit terms, such as a lack of commission for granting the loan or a lower interest rate with minimum formalities. Moreover, in the case of the Cash Loan, the maximum amount of loan available increased to PLN 150 thousand, and in the case of the Aurum/Platinum loan, promotional prices were offered in 2012 to the customers working in the particular professions i.a.: physician, architect, lawyer, university teacher and pharmacist.

Loans for small and medium enterprises and the housing market

As part of the loan offer for small and medium enterprises, the scope of granting loans from the Council of Europe Development Bank (CEB) was extended by adding non-revolving working capital loans in PLN to the existing investment loan. Working capital loans provided as part of the CEB line gave the customers an opportunity to take advantage of preferential terms in respect of the credit margin, which decreased by 0.5 pp. in relation to the standard rate. Additionally, in November 2012, a new product was added to the offer addressed to small and medium enterprises – a multi-purpose credit limit, i.e. an innovative loan aimed at facilitating long-term financial planning, with only one collateral provided by the customer for all products granted as part of the limit.

The Bank also increased the number of currencies in which supporting accounts can be opened. This new solution is addressed to the Bank's clients engaged in import and export activities to enable them to perform operations and settlements of the Bank's customers with foreign partners. In September 2012, the terms of financing the housing market customers were amended. The amendment took into account the current and expected directions of changes on the market and the Bank's credit policy relating to cooperation with housing developers were adjusted in a flexible way.

Deposit offer in the retail segment

In 2012, PKO Bank Polski SA continued activities relating to making the deposit offer more attractive to customers, both in terms of the permanent deposit offer and by introducing new products for customers. At the same time, PKO Bank Polski SA conducted activities aimed at diversifying sources of funding.

5.2 Principles of risk management

Risk management is one of the most important internal processes of PKO Bank Polski SA. The objectives of risk management are to ensure an adequate level of security and profitability of business operations in the changing legal and economic environment. The level of risk plays an important role in the planning process.

The following types of banking risk which are subject to risk management have been identified in the Bank: credit risk, interest rate risk, currency risk, liquidity risk, commodities prices, price risk of equity securities, operational risk, compliance risk, business risk (including strategic risk) and reputation risk. Derivatives risk is a subject to a special control due to the specific characteristics of these instruments.

Risk management in PKO Bank Polski SA is based on the following principles:

- the Bank manages all of the identified types of banking risk,
- the risk management process is appropriate to the scale of the operations and to the materiality, scale and complexity of a given risk and tailored to new risk factors and sources on a current basis,
- the risk management methods (in particular the models and their assumptions) and the risk measurement systems are tailored to the scale and complexity of the risk and verified and validated on a periodical basis,
- the area of risk and debt collection remains organisationally independent of business activities,

- risk management is integrated with the planning and controlling systems,
- the risk level is monitored on a current basis,
- the risk management process supports the pursuit of the Bank's strategy in keeping with the risk management strategy, in particular with regard to the level of tolerance of the risk.

The risk management process is supervised by the Supervisory Board of the Bank, which is informed on a regular basis about the risk profile of PKO Bank Polski SA as well as of the most important activities taken in the area of risk management.

The Bank's Management Board is responsible for the risk management, including supervising and monitoring of activities taken by the Bank in the area of risk management. The Bank's Management Board approves the most important decisions affecting the risk level of the Bank and enacts internal regulations defining the risk management system.

The risk management process is carried out in three, mutually independent lines of defence:

- the first line of defence, which is functional internal control that ensures using risk controls and compliance of the activities with the generally applicable laws,
- the second line of defence, which is the risk management system, including risk management methods, tools, process and risk management organisation,
- the third line of defence, which is an internal audit.

The independence of the lines of defence consists of preserving organisational independence in the following areas:

- the function of the second line of defence as regards creating system solutions is independent of the function of the first line of defence,
- the function of the third line of defence is independent of the functions of the first and second lines of defence,
- the function of managing the compliance risk reports directly to the President of the Management Board.

PKO Bank Polski SA's priority is to maintain its strong capital position and to increase its stable sources of funding, which constitute a basis for the stable development of business activity, while maintaining the priorities of efficiency and effective cost control. In this respect, the Bank took the following actions in 2012:

- it revolved a part of a syndicated loan in the amount of CHF 410 million repayable in July 2012 (with a new repayment deadline in June 2015) and issued bonds in the amount of EUR 50 million as part of the EMTN programme with 10-year maturity, CHF 500 million as part of the EMTN programme with ca. 3-year maturity and USD 1 billion on the American market, with 10-year maturity,

Moreover, in December 2012, the Polish Financial Supervision Authority confirmed that PKO Bank Polski SA met the conditions of high materiality resulting from the PFSA decision issued in June 2011 on conditional consent for applying the AMA method. Therefore, the PFSA enable to use the AMA method to calculate capital requirements in respect of operational risk without the limitation relating to a decrease in the capital requirement by no more than up to a level of 75% of the capital requirement calculated under the standardised approach. As a result, the Bank calculated the capital requirement in respect of operational risk as at the end of 2012 in full compliance with the AMA method.

5.2.1 Credit risk

Credit risk is defined as a risk of occurrence of losses due to a client's default of payments to the Bank or as a risk of decrease in economic value of amounts due to the Bank as a result of deterioration of a client's ability to repay due amounts.

The objective of credit risk management is to reduce losses of loan portfolio and to minimise the risk of impaired loans, while maintaining an expected level of yield and loan portfolio value.

The Bank applies the following principles of credit risk management:

- a loan transaction requires comprehensive credit risk assessment, which is reflected in an internal rating or credit scoring,
- credit risk assessment related to loan transactions is measured on the stage of a loan request review and a cyclical basis during the monitoring process, taking into consideration changes in external conditions and in the financial standing of the borrowers,
- credit risk assessment of exposures which are significant due to their risk levels or their value is subject to additional verification by credit risk assessment teams, which are independent of the business teams,
- terms of loan contracts that are offered to a client depend on the credit risk generated by the contract,
- loan granting decisions are made only by authorised persons within their authority,
- credit risk is diversified in particular by geographical location, by industry, by product and by clients,
- expected credit risk level is mitigated by setting by the Bank legal collateral, credit margins collected from clients and impairment allowances on loan exposures.

The above mentioned policies are executed by the Bank through the use of advanced credit risk management methods, both on the level of individual exposures and on the level of the whole credit portfolio of the Bank. These methods are verified and developed to ensure compliance with the internal ratings based requirements (IRB), i.e. advanced credit risk measurement method, which can be used while calculating capital requirements for credit risk after being approved by the Polish Financial Supervision Authority.

The Bank assesses the credit risk of retail clients on two levels: the client's borrowing capacity and creditworthiness. The assessment of borrowing capacity involves an examination of the client's financial situation, whereas the creditworthiness assessment involves scoring and evaluating the client's credit history obtained from external databases and internal records of the Bank. Credit risk relating to the financing of corporate clients is assessed on two levels: the client and the transaction. These assessments are based on the ratings of the client and the transaction. The cumulative rating is a synthetic measure of credit risk.

PKO BANK POLSKI SA DIRECTORS' REPORT
FOR THE YEAR 2012

In the case of corporate customers from the small and medium enterprises segment that meet certain criteria, the Bank assesses credit risk using the scoring method. This assessment is dedicated to low-value, uncomplicated loan transactions and it is performed in two dimensions: the client's borrowing capacity and creditworthiness. The borrowing capacity assessment involves examination of the customer's financial situation, whereas the creditworthiness assessment involves scoring and evaluation of the customer's credit history obtained from internal records of the Bank and external databases.

Information on ratings and scoring is widely used in the Bank for the purposes of credit risk management, the system of credit decision-making powers, determining the amounts above which independent credit assessment services are activated and in the credit risk assessment and reporting system.

In May 2012, a behavioural scoring system at the customer level was implemented at the Bank to replace the previous behavioural scoring system at the product level. The implementation of such scoring will make it possible to manage the total exposure of a retail customer using the mechanisms for comprehensive customer assessment based on both loan and deposit products held by that customer.

In the process of interest rate risk management, PKO Bank Polski SA uses the Value at Risk (VaR) model, interest income sensitivity measure, stress testing and a repricing gap.

As at 31 December 2012, the Bank was mainly exposed to the Polish zloty interest rate risk which was responsible for ca. 61% of the value at risk (VaR). Interest rate risk was determined mainly by the risk of a mismatch of the dates of revaluation of interest rates in respect of the Bank's assets and liabilities.

* Liquidity reserve equals the gap between the most liquid assets and expected and potential liabilities which mature in a given period of time

As at 31 December 2012, the level of permanent balances on deposits constituted approximately 93.3% of all deposits of the Bank (excluding interbank market), which is a decrease by ca. 1.5 pp. as compared to the end of 2011.

5.2.5 Commodity price risk

Commodity price risk is the risk of incurring a loss due to changes in commodity prices, generated by maintaining open positions on the particular types of goods. The objective of commodity price risk management is to reduce potential losses resulting from changes in commodity prices to the acceptable level through manipulating the structure of statement of financial position and off-balance sheet commodity items.

Commodity price risk is managed by imposing limits on instruments generating the commodity price risk, monitoring their use and reporting the risk level. The effect of the commodity price risk on the Bank's financial position is immaterial. In 2012, the items in transactions generating commodity price risk were closed each time at the close of business.

5.2.6 Price risk of equity securities

The price risk of equity securities is the risk of incurring a loss due to changes in the prices of equity securities on the public market or stock exchange indices, generated by maintaining open positions in instruments sensitive to changes in these market parameters.

The price risk of equity securities results from operations conducted as part of trading activities (the Brokerage House of PKO Bank Polski SA), investing activities and from other operations as part of banking activities generating a position in equity securities.

Managing the price risk of equity securities is aimed at limiting possible losses due to changes in the prices of equity securities on the public market or stock exchange indices to a level acceptable to the Bank, by optimising the positions taken in instruments sensitive to changes in these market parameters.

Risk management is carried out by imposing limits on the activity of the Brokerage House of PKO Bank Polski SA and monitoring their utilisation. An influence of the price risk of equity securities on the financial position of the Bank was assessed as immaterial. The positions taken in equity securities and index instruments are limited, and they are not expected to increase significantly.

5.2.7 Derivative instruments risk

The risk of derivative instruments is a risk arising from taking up by the Bank positions in financial instruments, which meet all of the following conditions:

- the value of an instrument changes with the change of the underlying instrument,
- it does not require any initial net investment or requires only a small initial net investment compared with other types of contracts which similarly respond to changes in market terms,
- it is to be settled at a future date.

The process of derivatives risk management in the Bank is integrated with the management of interest rate, currency, liquidity and credit risks. However, due to the specific nature of derivatives it is subject to special control specified in the internal regulations of the Bank.

For the purpose of measuring the risk of derivative instruments in the Bank i.a., the Value at Risk (VaR) model, which is discussed in the chapter concerning interest rate risk or in the chapter concerning currency risk, depending on the risk factor affecting the value of a given instrument is used.

Risk management is carried out by imposing limits on derivative instruments divided into banking and trading portfolios, monitoring the use of limits and reporting risk level.

Master agreements concluded by the Bank with the major business partners based on the standards developed by the Polish Banks Association (domestic banks) and ISDA (foreign banks and credit institutions), which allow offsetting mutual liabilities, both due (mitigation of settlement risk) and not yet due (mitigation of pre-settlement risk), are particularly important for mitigating the risk associated with derivative instruments.

Additional collateral for exposures, resulting from derivative instruments are collateral deposits escrowed by counterparties as a part of CSA agreements (Credit Support Annex).

5.2.8 Operational risk

Operational risk is defined as the risk of occurrence of a loss due to non-compliance or unreliability of internal processes, people and systems or external events.

The objective of operational risk management is to optimise operational efficiency by reducing operating losses, costs streamlining and improving the timing and adequacy of the response of the Bank to events which are beyond its control.

Operational risk management is performed through systemic solutions as well as regular ongoing management of the risk. Systemic operational risk management is centralised at the PKO Bank Polski SA's Head Office level. The ongoing operational risk management is conducted by every organisational unit of the Bank.

The Bank uses various solutions to limit its exposure to operational risk, including the following:

- control instruments,

- human resources management (staff selection, enhancement of professional qualifications of employees, motivation packages),
- setting threshold values of Key Risk Indicators (KRI),

- contingency plans,
- insurance,
- outsourcing,
- business continuance plans.

For the purposes of operational risk management, the Bank collects internal and external data about operational events and their effects, data about the operational environment and data concerning the quality of functional internal control.

If the risk level is increased or high, the Bank applies the following approaches:

- risk reduction - mitigating the effect of risk factors or the results of risk materialisation;
- risk transfer - transfer of liability for covering potential losses to a third party;
- risk avoidance - giving up the activity that generates a risk or eliminating the probability of occurrence of a risk factor.

5.2.9 Compliance risk

Compliance risk is defined as the risk of legal sanctions, incurring financial losses or losing reputation or reliability due to failure of PKO Bank Polski SA, its employees or entities acting on its behalf to comply with the provisions of the law, internal regulations and standards of conduct adopted by the Bank, including ethical standards.

The objective of compliance risk management is to ensure the Bank's compliance with law and adopted standards of conduct and the Bank's acting as an entity that is reliable, fair and honest, through mitigating compliance risk, reputation risk or the Bank's credibility and mitigating the risk of occurring financial losses or legal sanction risk resulting from breach of regulations and ethical standards.

- prompt, fair and professional consideration of complaints, requests and quality claims of clients.

The Bank has adopted a zero tolerance policy against compliance risk, which means that the Bank focuses its actions towards elimination of possible materialisation of this risk.

5.2.10 Business risk

Business risk is understood as a risk of incurring losses due to adverse changes in the business environment, taking bad decisions, incorrect implementation of decisions taken, or not taking appropriate actions in response to changes in the business environment; it includes in particular strategic risk.

The strategic risk is defined as a risk related to the possibility of negative financial consequences resulting from erroneous decisions, decisions made on the basis of an incorrect assessment or failing to make appropriate decisions to the direction of strategic development of the Bank. Managing the strategic risk is aimed at maintaining, on an acceptable level, the negative financial consequences resulting from erroneous decisions, decisions made on the basis of an incorrect assessment or failing to make appropriate decisions to the direction of the strategic development of the Bank.

In measuring the strategic risk, the Bank takes into account an impact of selected groups of factors, distinguished in the activity and in the environment, which comprise in particular:

5.2.12 Capital adequacy⁹

Capital adequacy is the maintenance of own funds by PKO Bank Polski SA which exceeds higher of the amount of capital requirements (the so called Pillar 1) or internal capital requirements (the so called Pillar 2).

The objective of capital adequacy management is to constantly maintain capital on a level that is adequate to the risk scale and profile of the Bank's activities.

The process of managing the Bank's capital adequacy comprises:

- identifying and monitoring significant types of risks,
- assessing internal capital to cover the individual risk types and total internal capital,
- monitoring, reporting, forecasting and limiting of capital adequacy,
- performing internal capital allocations to business areas, client segments and the Group entities in connection with profitability analyses,
- using tools affecting the capital adequacy level (of which: tools affecting the level of own funds, the scale of own funds item reductions and the level of the loan portfolio).

The main measures of capital adequacy are:

- the capital adequacy ratio, of which minimum level in accordance with the Banking Act is 8%,
- the ratio of own funds to internal capital, of which minimum level in accordance with the Banking Act is 1.0,
- the capital adequacy ratio for core equity (Common Equity Tier 1 ratio).

The capital adequacy level of the Bank as at 31 December 2012 maintained at a safe level and was significantly above the statutory limits.

Chart 3. Capital adequacy of PKO Bank Polski SA

As at 31 December 2012 compared with 31 December 2011, the Bank's capital adequacy ratio increased by 1.0 pp. to the level of 12.93%. It was a result of a significant increase of own funds in relation to an increase of the capital requirement in respect of credit and market risk, while a decrease in the capital requirement in respect of operational risk

PKO Bank Polski SA calculates capital requirements in accordance with the Polish Financial Supervision Authority Resolution No. 76/2010 of 10 March 2010 on the scope and detailed procedures for determining capital requirements for particular types of risk (Official Journal of PFSA No. 2, item 11 of 9 April 2010 with subsequent amendments) in respect of credit risk – the standardised approach, in respect of the operational risk – the advanced measurement approach (AMA), in respect of market risk – the basic approach.

⁹ Own funds for the purposes of capital adequacy are calculated in accordance with the provisions of the Banking Law and Resolution of the Polish Financial Supervision Authority No. 325/2011 of 20 December 2011 on deductions from own funds, their amount, scope and conditions of their deduction from a bank's own funds, other statement of financial position items included in supplementary funds, their amount, scope and conditions of their inclusion in bank's supplementary funds, deductions from supplementary funds, their amount, scope and conditions of their deduction from supplementary funds and the scope and manner of treating the activity of banks that are members of conglomerates in calculating own funds (Official Journal of PFSA No. 13*), item 49 of 30 December 2011).

An increase in the capital requirement in respect of credit risk by PLN 719 million (an increase by ca. 6.9%) to the level of PLN 11 206 million was mainly a consequence of the loan portfolio increase in 2012 and entry into force the provision of the Resolution No. 153/2011 of the PFSA due to which from the date of 30 June 2012, there was an increase in risk weights (from 75% to 100%) for retail exposures and for exposures secured on residential property, in which the instalment of principal or interest depends on changes in the exchange rate of the currency or currencies other than the currency of revenues generated by the debtor.

An increase in the capital requirement in respect of market risk by 35% to the level of PLN 527 million was mainly due to the increase of liabilities due to securities underwriting agreements of corporate bonds with a simultaneous decrease of the corporate bonds' value (total increase of the above mentioned bonds' requirement amount to ca. 65%).

A decrease in the capital requirement in respect of operational risk to the level of PLN 567 million was mainly a result of elimination of indicators regarding maintaining restrictions on the decrease of the capital requirement by no more than up to a level of 75% of the requirement calculated under the standardised approach (TSA).

The system focuses on setting objectives which are aligned with the direction of development of the entire organisation; these tasks are then cascaded to particular organisational units and individual employees.

Three pillars of the remuneration and incentive system:

I Pillar, the so-called Management by Objectives (MbO), covers managers for which specific individual objectives may be assigned. The MbO consists of granting bonus which depends on the quality and degree of completion of the tasks assigned and is the system which focuses on: determining performance indicators, assessing performance against the targets assigned, granting bonuses depending on performance.

II Pillar, the so called Individual Bonus System (IBS), is the system of bonuses which depends on the degree of completion of specific tasks in the areas of sales and effectiveness. The system covers those employees who are completing business tasks, mainly in retail branches and corporate centres, where individual or team, measurable targets can be defined or where there is a strong causal link between activities undertaken by individual employees and the level of achievement of the economic and financial results of the Bank.

III Pillar, the so-called Support Bonus System (SBS), includes other employees not covered by the system MbO and IBS. This is a typical 'participatory' solution, whereby award is granted for the achievement of targets by a person managing a given group of employees (a directors' contribution to the completion of tasks) and a unit. Given the nature of their jobs, such employees have an indirect, but significant impact on the degree of completion of the tasks assigned to their superior and the organisation as such, and thus participate in the results achieved by the Bank. It is also possible to define separate team targets (for an internal organisational unit). In this case, SBS is a bonus which depends on the quality and degree of completion of the tasks assigned to a team – solidarity-related targets.

5.4.2 Remuneration policy

The basic internal regulation regard of remuneration policy is the Collective Labour Agreement (ZUZP) concluded with the company trade union organisations on 28 March 1994 (with subsequent amendments), under which employees of the Bank receive the following remuneration components:

- the base remuneration,
- additional remuneration for working overtime, as well as under conditions which are especially onerous and detrimental to health,
- long service bonuses,
- one-off cash bonuses in connection with retiring on a pension or a disability pension due to a complete or partial inability to work and in addition, based on the separate resolutions passed by the Management Board of the Bank as a result of a recommendation of ZUZP in consultation with the trade union organisations, bonuses and awards for special achievements in work.

5.4.3 Benefits for employees

Medical care

The Bank ensures its employees additional, besides occupational health services (resulting from the regulations of the Polish Labour Code), medical care owed to employees according to various packages, addressed to particular groups of jobs as well. All packages enabled employees to have unlimited number of doctors' consultations in all areas of specialisation and to diagnostic tests ordered by them.

In 2011, the medical care for the employees was extended to include a health promotion programme called 'Zdrowie jak w Banku', covering, amongst others, a preventive health check and activities directed at health-oriented education and promoting a healthy life style. Providing broad range of charge medical services for all employees constitutes a significant element of additional benefits provided for the employed in the Bank.

6.1.2 Information concerning dividend

Dividend policy

On 4 April 2012, PKO Bank Polski SA adopted the dividend policy. The general principle of the Bank's dividend policy is the stable execution of dividend payments over a long period in keeping with the principle of prudent management and in line with the Bank's and the Group's financial capabilities. The objective of the dividend policy is to optimally shape the Bank's and the Group's capital structure, taking into account the return on capital employed and its cost, capital requirements related to development, accompanied by the necessity to ensure an appropriate level of the capital adequacy ratios.

The Management Board's intention is to recommend to the General Shareholders' Meeting in the future passing resolutions on dividend payments in amounts exceeding the adopted capital requirements indicated below:

- the capital adequacy ratio of the Bank and the Group will be above 12.00%, and the necessary capital buffer will be maintained,
- the common equity Tier 1 ratio of the Bank and the Group will be above 9.00%, and the necessary capital buffer will be maintained.

However, the dividend payment policy may be amended by the Management Board as required, and the decision in this matter will be made taking into account a number of factors related to the Bank and the Group, in particular, the current and anticipated financial standing and regulatory requirements. In accordance with the provisions of the law, each resolution on the payment of dividend will be considered by the General Shareholders' Meeting.

The dividend policy described above was approved by the Bank's Supervisory Board.

Dividend for the year 2011

On 9 May 2012 the Bank's Management Board adopted a resolution and decided to submit a recommendation to the Ordinary General Shareholders' Meeting on payment of a dividend for the year 2011 in the amount of PLN 1 587.5 million that is PLN 1.27 per share and proposed 12 June 2012 to be the date relevant establishing the right to the dividend (dividend day) and 27 June 2012 to be the dividend payment date.

In the opinion of the Management Board, the decision on the recommended distribution of profit for 2011 was in accordance with the Bank's dividend policy adopted on 4 April 2012. In the Bank's Management Board opinion a dividend payment in the recommended amount was to guarantee that the capital adequacy ratio is maintained above 12% and that the Tier 1 ratio is maintained above 9%, while maintaining the necessary capital buffer.

In the Management Board opinion a dividend payment in the recommended amount should allow the Bank to maintain its good capital and liquidity position.

The proposed dividend level was in line with the recommendation of the Polish Financial Supervision Authority with regard to strengthening banks' capital bases. In accordance with a letter from the PFSA dated 29 December 2011, a bank may recommend payment of a dividend if:

- it has a capital adequacy ratio above 12%,
- its Tier 1 ratio is above 9%,
- it receives a BION rating of at least 2.5,
- the share of foreign currency loans to private individuals in its loan portfolio for private individuals does not exceed 50%.

PKO Bank Polski SA met all the above criteria such that the Management Board might recommend a payment of a dividend. The Management Board's recommendation on payment of a dividend was considered by and obtained a positive opinion of the Supervisory Board in accordance with § 9 clause 2 of the Memorandum of Association of the Bank. In accordance with Article 395 § 2 clause 2 of the Commercial Companies Code and § 34 of the Memorandum of Association of the Bank, the recommendation was submitted for consideration by the Bank's Ordinary General Shareholders' Meeting approving the financial statements for the financial year ending on the 31 December 2011.

On 6 June 2012, the Ordinary General Shareholders' Meeting of PKO Bank Polski SA, as a result of PKO Bank Polski SA profit appropriation for financial year 2011, allocated PLN 1 587.5 million (i.e. 40.15% of profit) as a shareholders dividend, representing PLN 1.27 per share and it was consistent with the recommendation of the Management Board. The General Shareholders' Meeting set the following dates:

- day of acquisition of the dividends right on 12 June 2012,
- the dividend payment date on 27 June 2012.

All of the shares of PKO Bank Polski SA, i.e. 1 250 000 000 were covered by the dividend.

6.1.3 Share price of PKO Bank Polski SA at the Warsaw Stock Exchange

Share price of PKO Bank Polski SA

In 2012, the share price of PKO Bank Polski SA was mainly determined by the situation on the Warsaw Stock Exchange (GPW).

In 2012:

- the price of PKO Bank Polski SA shares increased by 14.9% (PLN + 4.78) from PLN 32.12 at the end of 2011 to PLN 36.90 at the end of 2012,
- the average price of the Bank's shares amounted to PLN 34.26 per share and was lower by 12.2% (PLN -4.78) than in 2011,
- the share price fluctuated in the range from PLN 30.50 (11 January and 24 May) to PLN 38.00 (14 September),
- the daily average volume of trading in the Bank's shares amounted to 2 410 thousand of shares while the highest level (14 366 thousand of shares) was recorded on 31 August and the lowest (601 thousand of units) on 30 October.

In 2012, stock prices on the WSE increased. The increases started in August, after significant decreases in the previous months of the year. This was mainly due to the fact that the moods of investors on the international financial markets improved, despite the continued adverse macroeconomic situation in both the European Union countries and the USA. Their optimism was largely associated with an anticipated improvement in the economic situation resulting from actions taken by the central banks, such as i.a. the Outright Monetary Transactions (OMT) programme launched by ECB in September to buy bonds of indebted euro zone countries, and the QE3 programme announced by the Fed, i.e. the third quantitative easing programme for buying mortgage bonds. Such actions helped ease tension on the financial markets.

The prices of the PKO Bank Polski SA's shares in 2012 were also affected by the expected, further sale of share blocks by BGK and the State Treasury after expiry of the 180-day lock-up following the sale of 95 million shares in July 2012.

6.1.4 Assessment of financial credibility of PKO Bank Polski SA

Currently, the financial reliability ratings of PKO Bank Polski SA are awarded by three significant rating agencies:

- rating agencies Moody's Investors Service and Standard & Poor's assign a rating to the Bank at a charge, in accordance with its own bank assessment procedure,
- Fitch Ratings agency assigns a free-of-charge rating (not ordered by the Bank), on the basis of publicly available information, including primarily interim and annual reports, and information on the Bank made available during direct contacts of representatives of the agency with the Bank.

In 2012:

- on 8 May 2012 Standard and Poor's rating agency awarded the Bank the following rating, at the Bank's commission:
 - o the Bank's long-term credit rating at the 'A-' level, with stable perspective,
 - o the Bank's short-term credit rating at the 'A-2' level, with stable perspective.
- on 28 June 2012 Moody's Investors Service Ltd. rating agency ('Moody's') reduced the potential rating for the subordinated debt of PKO Bank Polski SA under the Eurobond issue programme (MTN) to (P)Baa3 from (P)A3 in connection with the withdrawal by Moody's of the assumption relating to the systemic support for this class of debt.

The decrease was the result of a review initiated in November 2011 and related to reassessing the assumption as to the systemic support of the subordinated debt of a group of European banks, which led Moody's to the conclusion that there will be no systemic support for this class of debt. This conclusion shows that Poland is perceived by Moody's in a manner similar to other European countries, where the systemic support for subordinated debt may not be sufficiently predictable any more to support the rating of instruments used to reinforce capital.
- on 17 September 2012 Moody's Service agency informed about the changed outlook from 'stable' to 'negative' on Bank's deposit long-term ratings at the 'A2' level and Bank's debt liabilities long-term ratings at the 'A2' level.

In the grounds of conducted change of the outlook for 'A2' ratings agency analysts informed that the change in outlook reflects a reduction in the State Treasury's ownership of the Bank and the State Treasury's medium-term plans to reduce its indirect shareholding in the Bank.

The analysts working for the agency added that the ratings of PKO Bank Polski SA had three-notch uplift that was among the highest in the region. Such high uplift results from the fact that in Moody's opinion, it is very likely that the Bank will receive support from its main shareholders if needed, and the fact that the Bank plays an important role in the Polish banking and payment system.
